14. ABSTRACT Part 1 of the 3 part study was conducted on 13 May 2009 at Nationwide Children's Hospital. This was a cadaver cohort study with video comparison between radiologists with percutaneous USFBR, conventional surgical foreign body removal, and surgical foreign body removal with wire localization comparing incision size, time of procedure, wound closure (number of sutures), overall removal success and procedural differences. In this component, comparison data was collected using human cadaver thighs for testing differences between the surgical and percutaneous techniques. Part 1 was completed with success in year 1 using the tasks described in the approved SOW. The hypothesis for part 1 was proven partially correct. The hypothesis was that ultrasound guided foreign body removal (USFBR) is faster and more effective than open surgical removal, with smaller incisions. The results found that USFBR is more effective than open surgical removal, with smaller incisions. However, the results also showed that the surgical method was faster. No progress was made in year 2 or year 3. A no cost extension (NCE) for future years 4 and 5 was approved so we will pursue IRB and ORP HRPO approvals in year 4 quarter 1. We will also purchase the remaining supplies and equipment as stated in the budget justification. We anticipate scheduling part 2 training and part 3 clinical implementation in year 4.

Introduction:

This is a three part study: Part 1 is a cadaver cohort study with video comparison between radiologists with percutaneous ultrasound guided foreign body removal (USFBR), conventional surgical foreign body removal, and wire localization followed by surgical foreign body removal, comparing incision size, time of procedure, wound closure (number of sutures), overall removal success and procedural differences. Part 2 is an educational efficacy research project. The physicians are trained with a turkey breast simulator. They will be evaluated and measured on their performance and competency development with USFBR. Part 3 is a clinical implementation of USFBR in military health care setting as part of patient care of wounded war fighters with symptomatic soft tissue foreign bodies retained after blast injuries.

Body:

As previously reported in the first annual report, Part 1 of the 3 part study was conducted on 13 May 2009 at Nationwide Children's Hospital (NCH). All of part 1 was completed in year 1. This was a cadaver cohort study with video comparison between radiologists with percutaneous USFBR, conventional surgical foreign body removal, and surgical foreign body removal with wire localization comparing incision size, time of procedure, wound closure (number of sutures), overall removal success and procedural differences. In this component, comparison data was collected using human cadaver thighs for testing differences between the surgical and percutaneous techniques. Procedures were videotaped for a detailed analysis and accurate documentation of major and minor procedural differences. Statistical analysis projected 9 removals per procedures type would provide complete data sets for demonstration of statistical significance. Local IRB at NCH and secondary IRB approval through DOD ORP HRPO were obtained. Part 1 was completed with success in year 1 using the tasks described in the approved SOW.

The PI, William E. Shiels II, DO (Radiologist) implanted a total of 27 foreign bodies into human cadaver tissue. The anatomical materials used were human cadaver thighs. To remain consistent, all foreign bodies were the same. A 1 cm piece of a wooden toothpick was used to represent a traditional foreign body implanted in the cadaver tissue. Each cadaver thigh had 3 foreign bodies positioned into the tissue by Dr. Shiels. The study coordinator, Beth M. Haeuptle, MA timed, observed and documented the foreign body removals. Brad Hoehne (Graphic Animation Artist) had 2 digital video cameras on tripods documenting the procedures. He also hand held a high powered video camera which allowed for close up video to substantiate the findings. This same footage was used to develop future training materials in part 2 of the 3 part study. Dr. Shiels monitored the research efforts. Brian D. Kenney MD (surgeon) and James W. Murakami, MD (Radiologist) performing the foreign body removals; both physicians self-reported the start and end time, the incision size, number of sutures as well as the success or failure of the foreign body removal. This was done in conjunction with the written and video documentation for accuracy of findings.

Using a traditional surgical method following the skin marking of the foreign body location, Brian D. Kenney, MD completed 9 foreign body removals (3 in each thigh). The incision size for each removal ranged from 30mm – 58mm with a mean of 45.78 mm. The number of sutures ranged from 4 to 9 in order to effectively close the wound. The time to complete the procedure (skin to skin time) ranged from 4-15 minutes with a mean of 8.33 min.; 7 of the 9 removal attempts were successful. One foreign body was unable to be located by the surgeon. In a live situation the surgeon would send the patient to Radiology for wire localization and then the surgeon would re-operate with the wire localization method or percutaneous ultrasound guided foreign body removal would be completed by a radiologist.

Dr. William E. Shiels II, DO used ultrasound guidance for placement of localization wires at the site of each of 9 foreign bodies (3 in each thigh). Brian D. Kenney, MD then used an operative method following the wire localization to remove the foreign bodies. The incision size for each removal ranged from 24mm – 39mm with a mean of 32.1 mm. The number of sutures ranged from 3 to 6 in order to effectively close the wound. The time to complete the procedure (skin to skin time) ranged from 4-12 minutes with a mean of 7.1 min.; 8 of the 9 removals were successful. One foreign body was unable to be located by the surgeon.

The third removal type was percutaneous interventional radiological ultrasound guided foreign body removal. The technique was performed by James W. Murakami, MD. He completed 9 foreign body removals (3 in each thigh). The incision size for each removal ranged from 5mm – 9mm with a mean of 6.4 mm. Sutures are not needed for this removal technique due to the minimal incision size. A Band-Aid placed over the wound is standard of care. The time to complete the procedure (skin to skin time) ranged from 3-26 minutes with a mean of 12.2 min.; all 9 percutaneous removals were successful.

There are no previously reported findings to compare to our data.

No publications or presentations have been submitted, to date, for this research.

Unforeseen technical issues with cadaver materials occurred with both the surgical and the radiological procedures. The surgeon, Brian D. Kenney, MD commented that operative removal was a much easier in a cadaver compared to a live human because operative sites were not complicated by bleeding. During a procedure with a live patient the surgeon would need to stop every few minutes to manage bleeding which would lengthen the procedure time. During his first removal he commented that “this is necessitating significant tissue destruction to find the foreign body”. Additionally, the surgeon felt that blunt dissection facilitated movement of the foreign bodies in the surgical field; the surgeon switched from a blunt dissection to a sharp dissection to alleviate the movement issue. Both the surgeon and the radiologist reported the remarkable amount of movement with the foreign body removal. The surgeon noted that the 3 foreign bodies implanted in the third thigh with the traditional surgical removal were placed in the subcutaneous fat and not the muscle which made locating the foreign body easier. The wooden toothpicks were colored which the surgeon commented helped when searching for the foreign bodies. This is an advantage to the surgical method in the cadaver because the radiological method does not use an open operative field in which to see the color of the toothpick to help with localization. Dr. Kenney also verbalized the learning process of following the fascial penetration site for his operative approach; he said that once he adapted to that technique then the process was simplified. Live human tissue with a foreign body and the time it takes to seek treatment would not leave such an easy hole to follow in order to locate the foreign body. This is seen as an advantage to the operative procedure in a cadaver. With respect to wire localization procedure, Dr. Kenney noted that wire localization made the removal process much easier. The key to success with this method was having an experienced interventional radiologist provide 6 proper placement of the localization wire. If someone other than an experienced radiologist placed the wire, the failure rate would most likely increase. The radiologist in this study, Dr. Murakami, has performed over 100 foreign body removal procedures on living patients and expressed that it is very difficult working with cadaveric material. The mechanical (elastic) properties of the cadaver tissue effect the percutaneous ultrasound guided foreign body removal, seeming to add a degree of difficulty to cadaveric removal not experienced in live humans.

The findings demonstrated that percutaneous ultrasound guided foreign body removal technique has much less tissue destruction as compared with operative techniques; the incision size is also much smaller with this technique. This would result in a faster healing time if the foreign body removal was performed in a live patient. Sutures are not needed in the radiological method. The success rate was 100% for the percutaneous ultrasound guided foreign body removal technique. Whereas the removal success rate for the traditional surgical method was 78% successful and the surgical with wire localization was 89% successful.

Part 2 of the 3 part study is the competency training, testing, and documentation of military physicians in USFBR techniques. The approved SOW documented that this would take place in years 1-3. The unanticipated retirement of the part 2 PI, Les Folio, DO, COL, MC, USAF, SFS slowed down the submission process to the local IRB at USUHS. We worked in year 1 to change the PI to Grant E. Lattin, Jr., MD, MAJ, MC, USAF at USUHS but he later declined. The revised SOW approved by TATRC on 03Oct2011 now lists Dr. Shiels as PI for Part 2 and lists COL Rooks as a co-investigator at TAMC. The revised SOW was submitted to TATRC and approved for a no cost extension. The revised SOW included the change of PI for part 2, participating MTFs, as well as the location change from USUHS to NCH. The protocol will be submitted to TAMC for local IRB approval as well as local IRB approval at NCH and other MTFs and final approval through the ORP HRPO.

This phase of the research will have formalized and standardized procedural training, with development of clinical guidelines for physicians. The training and testing component was originally subcontracted to HMJF and was originally to be conducted at The Uniformed Services University of The Health Sciences (USUHS). The revised SOW approved by TATRC on 03Oct2011 now describes the training to be conducted at each MTF, NCH as well as at the AMEDD conference. Dr. Shiels, Dr. Murakami, Dr. Rooks or Associate Resident PI will be performing training and testing (and collecting data). COL Rooks will serve as the co-investigator at TAMC and assist in the recruitment of Army physicians. The budget allows for Part 2 training to be performed quarterly or at a minimum 2 times a year in order to meet the milestones. Training for military physicians (a minimum of 4 physicians and a maximum of 4 physicians each session) will occur in years 4 and 5.

Competency testing and training will involve one day of didactic and hand-on training, with pre-test and post-test components. Didactic training materials will incorporate written, slide presentation, animation, and hands-on tissue model mentored training components.

Physicians will undergo pre-testing with documentation of procedural omissions and errors, followed by standardized and formalized didactic and mentored hands-on training. Testing will include video review of a representative USFBR procedure followed by live procedural pre-testing of each physician for removal success, time to removal, demonstration of technical component proficiency, and successful recognition/management of technical pitfalls. Post-training assessment will document competency in a tissue model and document incorporation of standardized procedural steps in USFBR procedures with proper procedural steps and recognition/management of procedural pitfalls. Each physician will be required to successfully remove 5 wooden and 5 metallic foreign bodies to demonstrate procedural proficiency.

Part 2: Competency testing, training, and documentation of physicians in USFBR techniques. Nationwide Children's Hospital is the primary site and other participating institutions/MTFs include TAMC, BAMC, WRNMMC, and MAMC. Training may also be performed at an AMEDD course by PI, CO-PI or Associate PI. The budget allows for training to be performed quarterly or at a minimum 2 times a year in order to meet the milestones. A minimum of 4 and a maximum of six physicians will be trained each session.

Part 3 is a clinical implementation study in at least one MTF, documenting USFBR procedural parameters such as time to removal, incision size, type of foreign body, fragmentation during removal, success for failure of removal attempt, blunt vs. sharp dissection, complications, technical pitfalls encountered, time to return to function, time of wound healing, and subjective patient evaluation of the experience. In part 3, clinical comparison will be made with similar parameters, as possible, with patients who have undergone traditional surgical fragment removal (chart review or documentation from patients undergoing both procedures). In this clinical component, the objective will be for symptomatic foreign bodies in soft tissues to be removed with USFBR, with referral always at the discretion of the primary surgeon.

Specific procedural objectives would include USFBR incisions to be no longer than either the width of the removal forceps or the width of the foreign body being removed. Local anesthesia, sedation, or general anesthesia determinations will be made by the radiologist/physician removing the foreign body. Expectations are for soft tissue foreign bodies to be successfully removed intact, with greater than 90% success. Complications are to be recorded, but expected complications should only include simple wound infections as the anticipated complication (less than 10% occurrence). Pain following USFBR should be little to none (less than 2 on a 10 point scale). Post-procedural care should be the same as for routine wound care management from a sutured or non-sutured wound. Sutures should be used if wounds are clean, larger than 5-6 mm in length, and if longer than 6 mm, best closed with suture as opposed to tissue adhesive. Infected wounds should be allowed to heal by secondary intention, without sutures. Implementation of USFBR care should be completed in at least 5 war fighters by month 12 in order to demonstrate successful implementation in at least one military MTF to meet milestone.

Part 3 data collection will be performed in years 4 & 5. Dr. Shiels and Nationwide Children's Hospital will be responsible for parallel clinical state-of-the-art procedural and care algorithm development using ultra-high resolution sonography, with linear, compact linear, phased array, and convex linear transducers. Dr. Shiels and Nationwide Children's Hospital will provide quarterly, web-based state-of-the-art technology clinical and technical improvement updates. Dr. Shiels will provide annual on-site USFBR hands-on simulator procedural and technology update training at TAMC.

The study for Part 3 has been submitted to TAMC, NCH and ORP HRPO and we are waiting for notification of an approval. COL Veronica J. Rooks, MD, MC will serve as the PI at Tripler Army Medical Center (TAMC). William E. Shiels II, DO will be the Co-PI for part 3. Troy Koch, MD, CPT, MC, USA was not listed in the original SOW but was thought to join the research team at one time so his name was mentioned in the year 1 annual report. He is now not going to be part of the project due to conflict of time. His name has not been added to the study; no changes were submitted to the SOW and will not need to be submitted. Part 3 cannot begin until part 2 is approved and the physicians are trained in USFBR.

Key Research Accomplishments

Part 1 was completed with success in year 1 using the tasks described in the approved SOW.

Reportable Outcomes

No manuscripts, abstracts, presentations or other reportable outcomes have resulted from this research at this time.

Conclusion

The hypothesis for part 1 was proven partially correct. The hypothesis was that ultrasound guided foreign body removal (USFBR) is faster and more effective than open surgical removal, with smaller incisions. The results found that USFBR is more effective than open surgical removal, with smaller incisions. However the results also showed that the surgical method was faster. The results could have been affected by taking into account the differences in live tissue versus the dead tissue used with the cadaver thigh in this study. During future work or another comparison between radiologists with percutaneous USFBR, conventional surgical foreign body removal, and surgical foreign body removal with wire localization some changes would be recommended. Natural colored wooden 11 toothpicks would be a better choice than colored toothpicks that are easy to see in the cadaver tissue. Live tissue would alleviate the movement of the foreign body; but there would be no way to conduct a study on live patients with standardized implanting foreign bodies. A study could be done with live patients with existing foreign bodies but then there would not be any controls. Live patients would also have blood to make the operative portions of the study more life-like; however a researcher would not ever subject a patient to undue trauma from a surgical method if the percutaneous ultrasound guided foreign body removal technique were available. The findings showed the percutaneous ultrasound guided foreign body removal technique to have much less tissue destruction than operative techniques; the incision size is also much smaller in this technique. This would result in a faster healing time if the foreign body removal was performed in a live patient. Sutures are not needed in the radiological method. The success rate was 100% for the percutaneous ultrasound guided foreign body removal technique; whereas, the success rate for traditional surgical method and surgical with wire localization were only 78% and 89% respectively. The knowledge gained from this research demonstrates that USFBR is a more effective and less traumatic method of removing foreign bodies and should be readily implemented into the military system by training military physicians in part 2 with a clinical implementation in part 3.
